

The GEC product endorsement is a way for your company to truly show the world that your product has the ability of reducing the effects of Global Climate Change by its use.

This program was created just two years ago and several hundred products have sought this designation but only eight have achieved this highest honor of environmental stewardship.

The GEC product endorsement is a non technical product endorsement that provides your company with the following designations and benefits:

- Once your product has achieved the GEC Product Endorsement, no other similar company shall receive this designation.
- You will be able to market the GEC Product Endorsement in all your print, web and marketing materials.
- You may emboss the logo on all product packaging.
- A press release will be created in collaboration with your public relations department and it will be sent out to over 2 million green tech contacts worldwide.
- The GEC shall choreograph a National Press Conference on your behalf with invitations to over 850 media resources across the nation.
- An appointment on our National Board of Directors will be made available for a representative of your company as well as a chair on our Product Endorsement Committee
- The GEC shall consistently market your company whenever possible
- The GEC Washington DC offices and conference room will be made available for you for government and official meetings.
- The GEC will assist your company in achieving necessary meeting with officials whenever possible.

It was the decision that the product endorsement not be business class segregated, meaning that small green tech companies as well as large corporations would be able to afford the product endorsement.

The GEC product endorsement would be in the form of a certificate, a wall plaque and the use of the GEC Product endorsement logo that can be applied to every package of the product.

If you are interested in achieving this amazing designation for your Green Tech Product then please submit your product data in PDF format. This will enable us to move the data via email to GEC leadership and Product Endorsement Committee for review and approval.

Your product will be reviewed from industry professional, GEC Leadership, inventors and scientists.

We look forward to enabling your company to reach and surpass it's goals of getting the knowledge of your product to the masses while making a difference in saving the future of humanity!

If you are interested in this amazing program send an email to:

info@greenenergycouncil.com

Join These Companies In Achieving The Highest Honor In This New Green And Sustainable World!